
We evaluate your security practices to confirm your chance of surviving an attack.

Businesses depend on their data to be profitable, making that data more valuable than gold to a hacker.

An attack is only a question of time.

Is your organization ready?

Who are we?

Founded in 2017, Indominus is an IT consulting firm specializing in infrastructure and Security.

Indominus, from the Latin word for untameable, reflects our culture of redefining what is possible.

Born in the cloud, we are continuously developing tools that allow us to drastically augment your insights with regards to security.

We are a Microsoft Partner and a service provider for Azure and Office 365

Here is what makes us different:

- We're faster and more efficient
- We provide clear indicators
- We create crystal clear roadmaps
- We give step-by-step guidance that makes sense
- We produce a clear set of risks and related costs
- Our pricing is highly competitive
- A full refund of the analysis phase for any mandate to optimize Active Directory

We have a single-minded vision: to ensure that everyone has access to high-quality IT consulting for a reasonable price!

A CYBER-STORM IS COMING:
ARE YOU READY?

What we offer

We offer you an audit, which will be sized proportionally with your organization, that will allow us to perform a high-level assessment of the three critical points at the foundation of all security strategies: People, Processes and Technology.

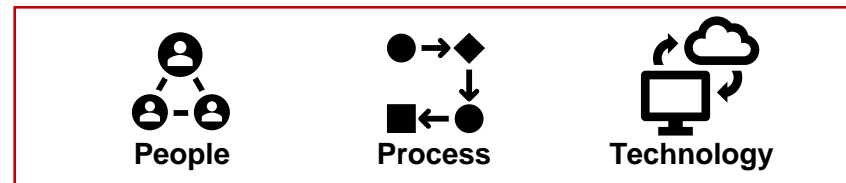

- Evaluate the level of awareness and knowledge of the person in charge of security;
- Assess the processes used to protect your digital assets, your data, and your customers;
- Assess your IT system's vulnerability, including access and identity management;
- Evaluate your security infrastructure;
- Evaluate your organization's ability to react quickly and effectively in the event of an attack;
- Validate the level and quality of security training being given to your staff;

What you will get

Our report will provide a clear summary of the current situation, outlining all areas of concern. We will also provide a detailed roadmap for you to follow that will address every weakness, putting your organization in the right defensive posture before it's too late.

Following this analysis, you will be armed with the information required to setup all the security controls, the processes and the various roles to become proactive and to be in control of your information's security.

Act before you get hacked!

Inspire confidence throughout your organization as well as with your board that your data and customers are secure. Our experts can give you the kind of command and control of your security that is normally enjoyed by government agencies and world-class financial institutions.

Take action today

Every analysis consists of the following:

- A mandate, starting as low as 5 business days
- A full collection of data
- An executive report evaluating your environment
